With sincere thankfulness and true gratitude for our well loved teacher, Miss Helen Clinedinst, we respectfully dedicate this volume. "Miss Helen" always tries to help those who need help. She is quiet and unassuming. She always cooperates with students and faculty and seems to have more than her share of patience. Many of the little tasks around our school would go undone if it were not for "Miss Helen".

History of Class of '48

When school opened September 6, 1944, a scared group of green freshmen, with expressions of innocence and ignorant bliss, were found occupying the seats in the rooms designated for them. They little realized the manifold dangers that would beset them while they were on their four-year quest for knowledge. The first stumbling block on the road to wisdom loomed ahead very soon. Yes, the freshmen initiation. How the sophomores pounced on those helpless creatures! The freshmen found themselves tangled up in a network of ridiculous costumes, assumed personalities, and immediately wished there were a royal road to learning. All survived, however, without permanent injuries.

After that things sailed along beautifully - with a few exceptions, of course. The class election was held in the fall and the following officers were chosen: Section A; president, Richard Tisinger; vice-president, Bernard Hollar; secretary, Joycie Funkhouser; treasurer, Agnes Drummond; and reporter, Irene Heishman. The home room teacher was Mrs. Lindamood. Section B; president, Donald L. Fadely; vice-president, Elizabeth Strippy; secretary, Lodema Gochenour; treasurer, Ellen Saum; and reporter, Betty Shipe. The home room teacher was Miss Clinedinst. In the May Day Program that year Ellen Saum and Irene Heishman were members of the May Court.

Near the end of school, when everyone was anticipating vacation, Lantz Mills Island welcomed the freshmen to a picnic.

Next came the happiest day of the year and May 30, 1945, school closed.

When school re-opened September 5, 1945, these scholars, while seeking greener pastures, chanced upon the Land of Sophomores. Having settled peacefully here, they chose their officers. In Miss Hoffman's home room they were president, Lodema Gochenour; vice-president, Reba Coffelt; secretary, Joycie Funkhouser; treasurer, Phyllis Helsley; and reporter, Irene Heishman. In Mr. Heishman's home room they were president, Donald L. Fadely; vice-president, Harry Stoneburner; secretary, Agnes Drummond; treasurer, Helen Hottle; and reporter, Benny Clem.

There were many attempts made to cough up the seemingly indigestible subjects like algebra and Latin, but the Sophs accepted them as a matter of course as they realized that even though medicine does taste bad it can do folks a world of good. Ellen Saum and Irene Heishman were again members of the May Court. In May these seekers of knowledge looked back over their stay in the fruitful land of Sophomores and knew that this had been time well spent. Thus May 31, 1946, found them pulling up stakes and moving onward, with a feeling of satisfaction for things well done and a fervent hope for a promising future in their hearts.

This group of scholars, ostentatiously elated by the attainment of their position as Upper Classmen, met again on September 4, 1946. Mrs. Showman was the home room teacher and the following officers were placed in the limelight: president, Bernard Hollar; vice-president, Lodema Gochenour; secretary, Elizabeth Strippy; treasurer, Irene Heishman; and reporter, Reba Coffelt.

On April 10, 1947, they presented their junior play, "Sing for Your Supper." The play cast included Jack Weaver, Jr., Anna Wilkins, Reba Coffelt, Betty Shipe, Jake Mauck, Allen Steadman, Elizabeth Strippy, Betty Ward, Lodema Gochenour, Ellen Saum, Irene Heishman, Donald Fadely, Marie Ward, Helen Hottle, Jack Rinker, Darlene Dellinger, and Phyllis Helsley. The cast, after many trials and tribulations while practicing, were a little apprehensive on the night of the performance, but the play was a success and the juniors cleared $65.24 of the $104.86 they took in. Those from the class who served in the May Court this year were Ellen Saum and Edna Jennings.

Out to Camp Strawderman on May 23rd for the reception the juniors and seniors gaily journeyed. After the games were played and the delicious food was consumed the students went to see a movie, "The Sea of Grass." Then the happy group set out for home.

Edna Jennings won the annual spelling contest.

As they bade each other "So Long" for another vacation June 6, 1947, the juniors realized that only one more year remained for their pursuit of their high school education. In just one more year each would be following a road that lay in a different direction from that of his classmates.

September 3, 1947, these scholars began their last term of school. For officers they chose Reba Coffelt, president; Elizabeth Strippy, vice-president; Joycie Funkhouser, secretary; Betty Polk, treasurer; and Evelyn Foltz, reporter. Miss Coffman was home room teacher.

In the T.B. Poster Contest which ended November 26, 1947, first prize in this school was given to Elizabeth Strippy. Jack Weaver, Jr., submitted two posters, both of which won honorable mention.

The senior play, entitled "A Little Honey" was presented November 6, 1947, by the following cast: Elizabeth Strippy, Jack Rinker, Betty Shipe, Reba Coffelt, Lodema Gochenour, Jack Weaver, Jr., Fred Patton, Betty Ward, Darlene Dellinger, Helen Hottle, Ellen Saum, and Robert Coffelt. It was a great success and $65.10 was cleared of the $122.68 taken in.

As things progressed they began to make plans for their graduation. Their chosen colors were maroon and gold; their flower, white carnation; and their motto, "Not merely to exist, but to amount to something in life."

Soon after mid-year it was announced that Reba Coffelt was salutatorian of the Class of '48 and Lois Brown was valedictorian. Also, both of these girls were elected by their class to compete in the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship Contest and both made a good rating.

The outstanding girl and boy elected by vote of the high school were both seniors - Ellen Saum and Richard Tisinger.

On March 12, 1948, several members of the senior class won honors for themselves in the reading contest. Ellen Saum won the prose reading contest and by unanimous vote of the judges Betty Shipe won the poetry reading contest.

Plans for May Day activities got under way and Elizabeth Strippy, who had been Queen of Hearts for Valentine Day, was chosen May Queen. Ellen Saum was chosen maid-of-honor. Darlene Dellinger, Lodema Gochenour, Irene Heishman, Edna Jennings, Betty Ward, and Anna Wilkins were members of the May Court.

As May 28th approached more and more excitement arose among the seniors. Graduation meant many things to them. It meant the realization of a goal; they had completed their four years of high school and had earned a diploma. It meant the beginning of a new and fuller life. Since their high school career has ended we no longer see these scholars as the Class of '48. Instead we see them as individual citizens, profiting by the experience gained during the years spent in school.

Senior Class Will

The Senior Class of 1948, in disposing of their most cherished possessions, hereby, testify that being of sound mind and body, do will the following possessions to those whom they will leave behind.

First, to the faculty we bequeath all the startling information and amazing knowledge which we have furnished them from time to time on our various examination papers.

To the Junior Class we will our seats in assembly and all the overlooked cuds of chewing gum on the underside of desks, banisters, or any likely or unlikely places which we sometimes had to rid ourselves of in too much haste to be able to choose the most desirable means of disposal.

Lois Brown wills any outstanding talents which can be found in her possession to anyone who can make good use of them.

Evelyn Clark wills her quietness to Lucile Howe.

Edison Cleland wills his knowledge gained by reading magazines to Edward Ross.

Johnny Clem wills his big feet to Paul Wakeman.

Reba Coffelt wills her dates to Joyce Shutters.

Robert Coffelt wills his glasses to Eugene Dudley.

Darlene Dellinger wills her chewing gum to Peggy Jo McClanahan.

Agnes Drummond wills her love for coca-colas to Ellen Helsley.

Donald Fadely wills his friendliness to Arbutus Donovan.

Evelyn Foltz wills her blue eyes to Mary Belle Spiggle.

Joycie Funkhouser wills her position as patrolman to Betty George.

Sterling Funkhouser wills his black, wavy hair to Dewey Funkhouser.

Lodema Gochenour wills her love for Miss Coffman to Ella Mumaw.

Margaret Grim wills her temper to Maxine Hottle.

Elva Habron wills her love for the Navy to Rebecca George.

Irene Heishman wills her musical talent to Edward Ross.

Betty Helsley wills a ride in her convertible, when she gets it, to any of the eighth graders who are still here.

Phyllis Helsley wills her ability to get along with the teachers to the Junior Class.

Claude Hines wills his reading ability to Johnny Thompson.

Bernard Hollar wills his managing ability to Erston Hines.

(Senior Class Will, continued)

Helen Hottle wills her love for Jack to no one

Edna Jennings wills her tallness to Nancy Wilkins.

Shirley Larkins wills his ability to drive a car to Bill Helsley.

Russell Pence wills his western pictures which he drew in class to Jake Mauck.

Betty Polk wills her dependability to Burdette Foltz.

Jack Rinker wills his meanness to Russell Wolfe.

Ellen Saum wills her friendliness with Joe Wightman to Jean Bowman.

Betty Shipe wills her hill-billy songs to Reba Fleenor.

Jean Sine wills her love for school to Elsie McClanahan.

Allen Steadman wills his mop of red hair to Donald Tisinger.

Elizabeth Strippy wills her slimness to Geneva Stephens.

Richard Tisinger wills his ability to play basketball to Stanley
Helsley, Jr.

Betty Ward wills her jokes to Mr. Lutz.

Jack Weaver wills his tallness to Ronnie Sheetz.

Anna Wilkins wills her ability to sew to Helen Larkin.

Purpose for F. H. A.

Future Homemakers of America is the national organization of pupils who study homemaking in junior and senior high schools. We work together for better and happier home life for everyone.

We think that helping to make happy homes, now and in the future, is the most important thing that youth can do for democracy.
